

LAND BANK TO APPLY GRANT FUNDING TO LOCAL PROJECTS

Posted by Joshua Thomas | Mar 31, 2017 | News | 0 🗨️ |

By MORGAN FRISCH and JOSHUA THOMAS
Recorder News Staff/C-S-E Editor

FONDA — The Greater Mohawk Valley Land Bank has been awarded approximately $1.6 million as part of the Land Bank Community Revitalization Initiative.

Tolga Morawski, executive director of the Greater Mohawk Valley Land Bank (GMVLB) said he was “pleasantly surprised” considering how new the land bank is. The state Attorney General’s Office established a revitalization initiative in 2013 using funds secured through settlements with the nation’s largest banks for misconduct contributing to the housing crisis.

The land bank was one of 19 to receive grant funds Friday. A total of $20.9 million was awarded through the latest disbursement of state settlement funds secured. The Capital Region Land Bank, which includes the city of Amsterdam, was awarded $1.7 million.

“It’s something that we are pretty excited about because I

ADVERTISING

MOST POPULAR STORIES

Police Reports – 05/05/2017
85 views | 0 comments | posted on May 5, 2017

Police Reports – 05/12/2017
56 views | 0 comments | posted on May 12, 2017

Quackenbush starts Property Owner Recognition Program
52 views | 0 comments | posted on May 19, 2017

Rain fails to dampen Springfest spirit
51 views | 0 comments | posted on May 19, 2017

Fort Plain prom-goers live Happily Ever After
46 views | 0 comments | posted on May 26, 2017

think it shows that the Attorney General's Office is on board with our vision," Morawski said.

The new GMVLB targeted grant funding to pilot a collaboration between the counties of Montgomery, Herkimer, Otsego and Schoharie, and the cities of Rome and Utica to significantly increase efforts to eradicate the blight of abandoned properties.

However, while many similar land banks focus their efforts specifically on eradicating blight, the GMLVB will also utilize a "systemic" approach.

"We're really looking at how to keep buildings from becoming blighted in the first place," Morawski said. The land bank will work with counties and cities to keep properties from falling into decline.

One of the GMVLB's major initiatives will be the establishment of a commercial fund for "white elephant" projects, an example being the 26-plus acre former Beech-Nut property in downtown Canajoharie.

Regularly, in the instance of a factory abandonment, the property will require several, expensive pre-revitalization studies, such as the phase one and two informational gathering inquiries at the former Beech-Nut site, with funding applications being submitted to state and environmental protection agencies.

"We're looking to speed up this process so there's ready funds available," Morawski said. It often takes a significant amount of time for funding to be approved and awarded. The GMVLB's current aim for Beech-Nut is to provide stabilization funding aimed at stopping leaks, patching the roof, and generally cleaning out the facility.

"Making the site more appealing so that when somebody comes in and looks around, they can envision its future," Morawski said.

He said the GMVLB is also "talking with Palatine Bridge about potentially helping them with the Webster Wagner house."

He said the $10,000 the GMVLB has already committed for work at the Wagner House house would be aimed at deconstruction, the land bank removing what's left of the building with the goal of salvaging what they can, including historically important pieces.

Morawski said the village board of Palatine Bridge will be a partner in the primarily safety-focused effort.

"The village of Palatine Bridge came forward and was ready

ADVERTISING

RECENT VIDEOS

Lock 14 Palatine Bridge & Genesee Brewery Tanks

50th Anniversary of the Goss Urbanite Press in Amsterdam

Montgomery County NY – Public Safety – HHS – Ed&Gov 09/13/2016

ADVERTISING

REGIONAL ARTS & CULTURE

6TH ANNUAL MEMORIAL DAY ARTISTS STUDIO TOUR ALONG THE ST. LAWRENCE RIVER

to help with costs, and to really partner with us to make it a priority for the land bank," he said.

Morawski said Fort Plain is also a target area for the GMVLB. "They've really had a few rough blows, namely the last flood in 2013."

The goal in Fort Plain is to tackle projects in concentrated, distressed areas, instead of taking a scattered approach, so that revitalization results will be clear to both residents and visitors.

Morawski said he hopes that movement will happen with these western Montgomery County projects in the near future, explaining that funds from the New York State Attorney General's Office could start flowing by April, with work potentially starting in May.

"The Wagner House and Beech-Nut projects are time sensitive," Morawski said, "and the same goes for Fort Plain."

The GMVLB hopes to get properties back on the market as soon as possible.

County Executive Matt Ossenfort said the housing issue is often one of the most overlooked challenges for Montgomery County and upstate New York. He said demolition, remediation, or saving historic homes is an expensive issue to deal with. Ossenfort said the additional funding resources coming into the land bank will help address the issue.

"I think the more resources that can be directed to it can help the community deal with it and take care of it's housing stock," Ossenfort said. "Having stronger property values, and a more aesthetically pleasing community is important."

Morawski said this is the third grant the Greater Mohawk Valley Lank Bank has received. It has acquired approximately $1.9 million in total. He said the land bank is working to receive even more grant funds.

"We are working on a lot of different possibilities," Morawski said. "We haven't received any of them yet but they are in the works."

May 28 @ 10:00 am - 5:00 pm

ADIRONDACK PEACE /
ELLEN LAUZIÈRE , INSTRUCTOR

May 28 @ 2:00
pm - 4:00 pm

COMMUNITY THEATRE
PLAYERS
PRESENTS
SHE LOVES ME AT PENDRAGON
THEATRE

May 28 @ 2:00
pm - 4:00 pm

BAKERY
CONCERT #5
IN SARANAC LAKE

May 28 @ 4:00
pm - 6:00 pm

BALLET AT THE KIRKLAND ART CENTER

May 30 @ 3:30
pm - 5:00 pm

View All Events

ADVERTISING